

Enroll to Quiz

Quiz participants can be Confluence users and groups or external participants without an account in Confluence.

There are two options for quiz participants to get enrolled to a quiz:

- either a quiz author needs to share a quiz with them by emailing a quiz link
- or, a quiz author can let participants self-enroll to a quiz

On this page:

The screenshot shows a Confluence page titled "April 1" with the heading "Atlassian Community, Happy April Fool's Day!". Below the heading is a colorful "APRIL FOOLS' DAY" graphic. The text reads: "Up for some fun, laughs and smiles? Take our April Fool's Day quiz!" followed by "10 Atlassian related Real and Made-up funny facts. See if you can tell which is which 😊". A blue "Take quiz" button is centered below the text. The StiltSoft logo is in the bottom right corner.

- Page with training material and the 'Take quiz' button, clicking which leads to a quiz checking understanding of the presented material

The screenshot shows a Confluence page titled "Key Points". It contains a bulleted list of points about body language. Below the list is a light blue box with the text: "Thank you for studying this module! Now take the 'Body Language' quiz to check your understanding." A blue "Take quiz" button is centered below the box.

- Body language impacts a great deal of how we communicate, and can reflect quite accurately what's going on inside us.
- It includes body movements and gestures (legs, arms, hands, head and torso), posture, muscle tension, eye contact, skin coloring (flushed red), even people's breathing rate and perspiration.
- Additionally, the tone of voice, the rate of speech and the pitch of the voice all add to the words that are being used.
- It is important to recognize that body language may vary between individuals, and between different cultures and nationalities.
- It is therefore essential to verify and confirm the signals that you are reading, by questioning the individual and getting to know the person.
